General Trends

Public support for civil liberties has risen over the last 40 years and is at record highs in 2014. People were asked whether members of certain politically or socially controversial groups should be allowed to make a public speech favoring their point of view, have a book advocating their position in a public library, or teach in a college. The groups asked about were those “against all churches and religions” (anti-religionists), those believing that “blacks are genetically inferior” (racists), Communists, those favoring “doing away with elections and letting the military run the country” (militarists), homosexuals, and Muslim clergymen who preach “hatred of the United States” (Muslim extremists). (For the wording of these questions, see Appendix 1: Question Wordings.) As Figures 1-6 illustrate, there have been appreciable increases in support for allowing public speeches, books in libraries, and college teaching for almost all groups. Approval typically increased by 10 to 30+ percentage points. For example, allowing anti-religionists to make speeches rose from 66.1% in 1972 to 79.3% in 2014; permitting a Communist library book grew from 53.4% in 1972 to 71.2% in 2014; and accepting a homosexual college teacher climbed from 48.1% in 1973 to 88.3% in 2014. (For full percentages for all groups and all years, see the attached tables.)

The one notable exception was for racists. There was no clear trend on civil liberties for racists and the changes from earliest-to-latest year were modest. Support for allowing a public speech fell from 61.5% in 1976 to 59.5% in 2014 (-2.0 percentage points), for a library book it went up from 59.8% in 1976 to 62.5% in 2014 (+2.7 points), and for college teaching it rose from 40.5% in 1976 to 47.5% in 2014 (+7.0 points). The average 1976-2014 change on these three items was only +2.5 points. It appears that the growing disapproval of racists suppressed the general rise in acceptance of civil liberties for this group.

Three-item, civil-liberties indexes were made by taking the average% for allowing each group to make a public speech, have a book in a library, and teach in a college. As Figure 7 indicates, homosexuals gained the most in first-to-latest changes (+31.7 points), followed by Communists (+21.1 points), anti-religionists (+17.8 points), militarists (+17.3 points), racists (+2.5 points), and Muslim extremists (+1.3 points). When these trends are expressed as percentage point change per annum, the gains were +0.77 points for homosexuals, +0.50 for Communists, +0.46 for militarists, +0.42 for anti-religionists, +0.22 for Muslim extremists, and +0.07 for racists. Thus, approval of civil liberties has been increasing by over three-quarters of a percentage per annum for homosexuals; about half a percentage point per annum for Communists, militarists, and anti-religionists; less for Muslim extremists; and least for racists.

Looking at the five groups that were tracked from 1976 through 2014 (excluding Muslim extremists who were only covered in 2008-2014), the first-to-latest change in the average support for granting civil liberties on the 15 items was from 53.5% in 1976 to 70.2% in 2014 (+16.7 points), and the low-to-high change was from 52.0% in 1977 to 70.2% in 2014 (+18.2 points).

In 2014, these civil-liberties indexes show the highest support for granting of rights to homosexuals (86.3%), followed by anti-religionists (74.0%), Communists (67.5%), militarists (66.9%), racists (56.5%), and least support for civil liberties for Muslim extremists (40.7%).

Across all six groups in 2014, there was the most support for allowing a library book (68.5%), followed by permitting a public speech (68.0%), and then by approving of college teaching (59.5%).

Trends by Selective Sociodemographics

Men have generally been modestly more supportive of civil liberties than have women. Looking across all years, support for civil liberties typically has been about 4-6 percentage points higher among men than women. The main exception is towards homosexuals. Men and women show no difference on public speeches and library books, and men are actually less likely to approve of a homosexual teaching by -1.9 points. Moreover, in recent years, approval of civil liberties for homosexuals has been notably less among men than among women (-3 to -6 points).

Younger adults are considerably more for civil liberties than are older adults. Across all years, those under 35 are more supportive than those 65+ of granting civil liberties, typically by +25-35 points regarding anti-religionists, Communists, militarists, and homosexuals. The age differences are smaller for Muslim extremists (+6-7 points) and racists (+11-12 points). In addition, the age gap narrowed notably in recent years for racists. In 2014, those under 35 were less supportive of civil liberties for racists than were those 65+ by -1.8 points for speeches and -3.5 points for library books, and only more supportive by +1.4 points for teaching college. The 35- to 64-year-olds were the most willing to grant civil liberties to racists. The large cohort differences for most groups have been a major factor behind the rising level of support for civil liberties as more approving younger generations replace less accepting older generations due to cohort turnover. Conversely, the small and declining cohort difference for racists is one of the main reasons why civil liberties have not increased for this group.

The better educated are notably more supportive of civil liberties than are the less educated. These differences are even greater and more general than the often substantial age differences. The college educated are more likely than those with less than a high school education to support civil liberties, typically by 30-40 percentage points. For example, over all years, support for allowing a militarist to speak was +40.0 points greater among the college educated than among those not completing high school, and the difference for library books was +40.4 points and for teaching college +34.3 points. Only the education gaps for racists were somewhat smaller, being +28.3 points for speaking, +30.2 points for library books, and +21.1 points for teaching.

The data in this report are from the General Social Survey (GSS). The GSSs are full probability, in-person samples of adults living in households in the United States. Data have been collected by NORC at the University of Chicago. Core support for the GSS comes from the National Science Foundation. Appendix 1: Question Wordings

There are always some people whose ideas are considered bad or dangerous by other people. For instance, somebody who is against all churches and religion...

- a. If such a person wanted to make a speech in your (city/town/community) against churches and religion, should he be allowed to speak, or not?
- b. Should such a person be allowed to teach in a college or university, or not?
- c. If some people in your community suggested that a book he wrote against churches and religion should be taken out of your public library, would you favor removing this book, or not?

Or consider a person who believes that Blacks are genetically inferior.

- a. If such a person wanted to make a speech in your community claiming that Blacks are inferior, should he be allowed to speak, or not?
- b. Should such a person be allowed to teach in college or university, or not?
- c. If some people in your community suggested that a book he wrote which said Blacks are inferior should be taken out of your public Library, would you favor removing this book, or not?

Now, I should like to ask you some questions about a man who admits he is a Communist.

- a. Suppose this admitted Communist wanted to make a speech in your community. Should he be allowed to speak, or not?
- b. Suppose he is teaching in a college. Should he be fired, or no?
- c. Suppose he wrote a book which is in your public library. Somebody in your community suggests that the book should be removed from the library. Would you favor removing it, or not?

Consider a person who advocates doing away with elections and letting the military run the country.

- a. If such a person wanted to make a speech in your community, should he be allowed to speak, or not?
- b. Should such a person be allowed to teach in a college or university, or not?
- c. Suppose he wrote a book advocating doing away with elections and letting the military run the country. Somebody in your community suggests that the book be removed from the public library. Would you favor removing it, or not?

And what about a man who admits that he is a homosexual.

- a. Suppose this admitted homosexual wanted to make a speech in your community. Should he be allowed to speak, or not?
- b. Should such a person be allowed to teach in a college or university, or not?
- c. If some people in your community suggested that a book he wrote in favor of homosexuality should be taken out of your public library, would you favor removing this book, or not?

Now consider a Muslim clergyman who preaches hatred of the United States.

- a. If such a person wanted to make a speech in your community preaching hatred of the United States, should he be allowed to speak, or not?
- b. Should such a person be allowed to teach in a college or university, or not?
- c. If some people in your community suggested that a book he wrote which preaches hatred of the United States should be taken out of your public library, would you favor removing this book, or not?
