

John Whitmer, Ed.D., is senior research scientist and founder of Learning Data Insights (LDI), a technical services and open software solutions agency that supports education technology providers, philanthropic foundations, and other organizations seeking to build and evaluate technology-assisted education research and development. LDI provides services to large-scale education 'collaboratories' and agencies including the Learning Engineering Virtual Institute, Advancing Innovative Math Solutions, and The Learning Agency.

He has previously worked as a senior fellow to the Institute for Education Statistics (IES), the largest federal education research agency in the United States, led data science teams at Blackboard and ACT Next, and held academic technology roles for the California State University and California Community College Systems.

John lives in Davis, California with his partner and two children.